Dear FCC:

Dear FCC,

As a single mother with two small children, I chose the TracFone service as an option to keep my charges down but have the security of having a cell phone for emergencies. Added charges to my cell phone provider will only increase my charges, which I cannot afford. If these increases are to support others, such as rural areas for example, why are you not charging more for rural areas instead of charging people who quite possibly cannot afford it and it does not apply? Please keep these charges fair. Please reconsider your proposal to increase the USF fees.

Regards,
Wendy Moore

Thank you for your prompt attention to this matter. Please provide a written response indicating the status/resolution of this matter.

Very truly yours,
